The narrative isn't a simple one. Hamka's father, Haji Abdul Karim, wasn't a orthodox religious teacher. He was a unassisted scholar, a respected village leader, and a man of strong character. His technique to instructing irfan, or spiritual understanding, wasn't through formal lessons but through lived application. He exhibited his faith through his actions, his honesty, and his devotion to fairness. This hands-on approach profoundly influenced young Hamka's understanding of Islam.
